

Cherie Porter Blackwell is a fine arts photographer and printmaker in the San Francisco Bay Area. Her art practice involves the application of digital capture photography to fine arts printmaking including utilizing photogravure, gum bichromate, and large-scale serigraphic pigment printing techniques on wood and textiles to produce images that sit on the borderline between photography and hand-drawn imagery.

Collector' boxed sets of photographic images printed with photogravure and photopolymer gravure processes are available for review upon request..

For more information about current exhibitions, workshops, and private tutoring, please contact the artist directly.